"I have checked with drainage and they have provided the following comments:

Given the circumstances of this case, reuse of the existing connection to the public combined sewer is considered acceptable in principle, as this reflects the previous drainage arrangement serving the former dwellings.

However, the surface water drainage proposals should still demonstrate that the scheme has been considered in accordance with the drainage hierarchy, including whether any reasonably practicable SuDS measures can be incorporated and whether there is scope to reduce surface water discharge to the public sewer."
