However, if you submit the new application for everything you have already had approved last time and built plus the balcony then you wouldn't have to pay the planning fee. So, with that in mind the description on your new application form would be 'Two storey extension at side plus balcony to the front' the outcome of the meeting is that the balcony may well be acceptable and it is worth submitting a planning application in respect of that. This email isn't confirmation that the balcony will definitely be approved but in principal it may be ok and we welcome a planning application.
