

A stylized illustration of a building facade. The building has a brown, brick-like texture. On the left, there are two small, dark grey doorways. Above them, a white rectangular sign with a dark border contains the text "THE ROCK" in bold, dark grey, sans-serif capital letters. To the right of the doorways is a large window with a dark frame, divided into eight panes (two rows of four). Further right is a smaller, single-pane window above a double glass door. To the right of the door is another large window, similar in size to the first one, also divided into eight panes. The building is set against a plain white background.

SOUTH ELEVATION