Bat Emergence Surveys

A valid bat report has been provided carried out during the peak activity season. No evidence of bats roosting was detected but high levels of bat activity recorded, including behaviour indicative of bats investigating bat roost opportunities around the building. They have therefore concluded that reasonable avoidance measures should be applied to any permission.

I have no reason to doubt the findings of the report.

I therefore recommend that section 6.1 to 6.4 of the report are conditioned as part of any permission
