NOTES TO APPLICANT

1. Proposal: New café serving pizzas, kebabs, chips and similar takeaway foods
Summary

Public Health welcomes investment in local food provision and recognises the role that cafés and takeaways play in the local economy and community. However, there is a well-established link between frequent consumption of energy-dense, high-fat, high-salt foods and increased risk of obesity, cardiovascular disease, and other long-term health conditions.

In Bury, levels of excess weight in both adults and children remain a significant concern. Improving the nutritional quality of food sold in takeaway settings is therefore a key opportunity to support healthier environments and reduce health inequalities.

Public Health Considerations

The proposed menu, pizza, kebabs, chips and similar items—typically falls within categories that are:

- High in calories and saturated fat
- High in salt
- Often prepared using methods that increase fat content (e.g., deep frying)

Without mitigation, regular consumption of these foods can contribute to poor diet quality and adverse health outcomes.

Recommendations for Healthier Practice

Public Health strongly encourages the applicant to implement the following measures to support healthier choices:

1. Healthier Menu Options

- Offer smaller portion sizes as standard or clearly promoted alternatives
- Provide options such as:
 - Wholemeal or thin-crust pizza bases
 - Leaner meat options (e.g., grilled chicken instead of processed meats)
 - Increased vegetable toppings and side options (e.g., salads)
- Include vegetarian and plant-based dishes that are not heavily processed

2. Reducing Fat and Oil

- Use healthier cooking methods such as grilling instead of frying where possible

- Ensure regular oil changes to maintain quality and reduce harmful compounds
- Use oils lower in saturated fat (e.g., rapeseed oil instead of palm oil)
- Avoid excessive oil application (e.g., draining fried foods thoroughly before serving)

3. Reducing Salt

- Gradually reduce the amount of salt added in recipes to help reset consumer taste preferences
- Avoid pre-salted ingredients where possible
- Remove or limit salt shakers or sachets unless requested
- Provide clear nutritional information where feasible

4. Sugary Drinks and Add-ons

- Promote and price competitively low- and no-sugar drink options
- Avoid default meal deals that include high-sugar drinks
- Provide access to free drinking water

5. Responsible Marketing and Labelling

- Avoid promoting large portion “upsizing” deals as the default
- Clearly display healthier options prominently on menus and in-store

Healthy Food Charter – Bury

Public Health strongly encourages the business owner to sign up to Bury’s Healthy Food Charter :

<https://theburydirectory.co.uk/asset-library/imported-assets/bury-food-charter-silver-award-2.pdf>

Participation in the Charter will:

- Demonstrate a commitment to supporting community health
- Provide guidance and support on improving food standards
- Enhance the business’s reputation as a responsible local provider
- Align the café with wider borough-wide health improvement priorities

Conclusion :

While the proposed café may contribute positively to the local economy, it is important that steps are taken to ensure it also supports healthier dietary behaviours. Implementing the recommendations above and engaging with Bury's Healthy Food Charter would represent a proactive and positive approach to public health.

Public Health Public Health would be happy to work with the applicant to support implementation of these measures Public Health publichealth@bury.gov.uk
