This architectural drawing shows a side elevation of a building. The main wall is covered in a brick pattern. On the left, there is a large rectangular window with a horizontal bar across the middle. Above this window, there is a smaller, square window. To the right of the main wall, there is a gabled roof structure. The roof is covered in a pattern of diagonal lines. A chimney is visible on the right side of the roof. The drawing is a black and white line art.
